

Kingston Police extend a warm welcome to all students attending to studies in the amazing city of Kingston.

Kingston Police strive to ensure the safety and security of all residents of Kingston, and wish to advise students of the increased risks involved with large gatherings.

Particularly concerning for emergency services are high-risk behaviors such as, excessive intoxication, throwing of projectiles, occupying roof tops, damaging property and aggressive/combatative behavior.

These behaviors present significant risk to students and neighbors including, difficulty for emergency services to reach those in urgent need, increased risks associated with motor vehicle/pedestrian traffic, high intoxication resulting in incapacitation and alcohol poisoning, injury from combative surroundings, and potentially fatal injury from roof top falls.

Hospitals are overwhelmed post COVID-19, and emergency services resources are stretched. Unnecessary delays in response to emergencies put everyone at risk.

It is important that everyone uses prudence in ensuring that they are being safe and respectful neighbors in this beautiful city of Kingston, so that we all enjoy a safe and memorable experience.

Serving our community since 1841.
